Nancy: I shall never forget how lovely you looked on the day of your piano recital at Mrs. Westbrooks and the pieces you played caused me to look back on memory's screen to the time of my own recital. Now what I wish for you, is that the years from the time of your recital 'til you attend a young girls recital will be as happy as mine have been -- so it will be a joy to listen to good music and mentally travel over a beautiful memory Road - Love -
Mrs. Glenn Dill

1951 Yearbook of
OKEMAH HIGH SCHOOL
OKEMAH, OKLAHOMA

Foreword

We, the graduates of '51, face a crossroad between war and peace. In accepting the challenging trust that is placed in us, we promise to blaze the right trail along the narrow path of peace and to leave behind forever the treacherous blood-soaked highway of war. We promise those who fell in battle that "they shall not have died in vain; and that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom". We shall do our utmost to keep peace on earth, and good will among men.

Dedication

To every member of the armed forces, and especially to our own boys in the 45th., we dedicate this, the 1951 edition of the Okemah High School Annual. Without these gallant, freedom-loving boys, several of whom would still be in high school if they were not in the National Guard, our nation would not be nearly so well guarded. For these boys to be willing to risk their own lives in order to preserve our democracy, is a deed which is not to be easily equalled. And so, to them, the members of the Oklahoma 45th Division of the National Guard, this annual is gratefully dedicated.

MESSAGE

You young people want to live a useful and successful life, and I want your wish to come true. You will do all right if you will remember that there is no substitute for work, to do each day's task successfully, and to keep faith with yourself, your neighbors, and your God. No high school can boast a more co-operative and versatile student body than can O.H.S. Your every effort and act for self and school improvement has been deeply appreciated.

MR. CECIL E. OAKES
Superintendent of Schools

MESSAGE

This has been a very pleasant year. As we reflect upon the many achievements of the last few months, we understand why. Surely, there is no deeper pleasure than the feeling of satisfaction that comes with a task well done. And when the workers are as cheerful, friendly, and helpful as ours have been, the work becomes a joy in itself.

For this year of accomplishment, fellowship, and pleasure, then, I extend congratulations to The Panther Staff, the student body, the teachers, and the citizens of Okemah.
